Adler & Colvin Congratulates Emily Chan on Her New Role as Of Counsel

We are pleased to announce that as of January 2020, Emily Chan has been elevated to Of Counsel.

Emily advises nonprofit and tax-exempt organizations on matters involving corporate governance and state and federal tax laws.

Emily has presented at national conferences, including the American Bar Association Midyear Meeting and Board Source Leadership Forum, and for local groups, such as the Nonprofit Organizations Committee of the Business Law Section of the State Bar of California, the Bar Association of San Francisco, and Foundation Center – San Francisco. She has also been a guest lecturer for the Master of Nonprofit Administration degree program at the University of San Francisco.

Emily has authored and co-authored articles on nonprofit and exempt organization legal issues for publications such as the American Bar Association Business Law Today, the Nonprofit Quarterly, and the Chronicle of Philanthropy, among others.

Emily was the 2012 recipient of the Outstanding Young Attorney award from the Nonprofit Organizations Committee of the Business Law Section of the American Bar Association for her contributions to the nonprofit sector and development of nonprofit law.

Congratulations, Emily!
