A View of the Sector

Explore the latest in policy and regulation from the US Government in an effort to answer the question: What just happened? You'll be the first to know about topics like donor advised fund regulations, end of year legislation, and what is Congress likely to do next? What about those expiring incentives for charitable giving, will they be renewed? Meanwhile, the Supreme Court continues to unwind the regulatory powers of the executive branch.

9:30 a.m. 1.00 hr

The Future of Philanthropy and the Nonprofit Sector: Where Do We Go From Here?

Against the global and local backdrop of pandemics, ongoing and increasing inequities, market volatility, and other fault lines and challenges, philanthropy continues to play a critical role – but that role is evolving and impacted by these same changes. How do we respond? What is the best way for philanthropy to engage and support? This panel explores the backdrop dynamics and their impact on the role of (and opportunities for) philanthropy, discuss predictions and expectations for what is next, and provide practical experience and perspectives from the trenches.

1:30 p.m. .75 hr

Community and Economic Development and Public/Private Partnerships

Community and economic development projects usually seek to alleviate poverty and community deterioration, think CDFIs, social enterprise zones, and social or green bonds. This usually involves incentivizing the commercial sector to provide capital through subsidies from private foundations and government support. The projects themselves can be managed by public charities or private actors. How have these partnerships been structured to support local communities? What are some of the challenges that they have faced?
